Congressional Democrats want to scrap a 200-year-old Senate rule so they can ram through their socialist agenda. They want to nationalize elections, pack the Supreme Court, abolish gun rights, and revive and pass the horrendously absurd Build Back Better bill, among other things. In this episode, Paul discusses with Christian Gomez and Peter Rykowski of The John Birch Society Research Department why it's important to keep this traditional Senate rule and what practical actions concerned citizens can take to stop destructive policies.
